Dear Tom:

It is with sincerest appreciation that we present you with our Extraordinary Partner Award which acknowledges the vital role you have played in the development of our first Seasons 52 restaurant.

While small, this award has a unique history. During the late sixteenth century, merchant ship builders often raised funds for their new vessels by selling small shares of ownership. This was usually signified by an engraved wooden plaque which identified each investor as an owner ... or "plankholder" in the new venture.

In a similar way, your personal commitment to the development of Seasons 52 has made you a "plankholder" in our new company. The wood from this frame was cut from the very same planks that were used to build our first restaurant. Just as the wood is an extension of the restaurant's structure, you are an extension of its foundation.

We sincerely thank you for your efforts to make Seasons 52 successful and we look forward to continuing our great association for many years ahead.

Warmest Regards,
